

The Ricks' Journey...

You have heard us talk many times about our upcoming ministry in Ghana. This month, we thought you might like to hear from Ruby Mikulencak, Director of SIM Ghana.

Dear Friends and Supporters of the Ricks,

I am writing of behalf of Jason and Heather as they come and teach at Maranatha University College. Jason will be teaching and playing a key role in discipling students who attend MUC.

We all know that a lot of information is given in the scheduled class times that help men and women to be theologically strong. However, character building takes time and involves being with people. It usually takes more than just passing on information in a classroom setting. A key component of Jason's ministry will be in spending time with students and mentoring them. He and Heather will have time to be available for this important aspect of creating godly men and women who will be able to make a difference in their society.

One of SIM Ghana's key goals is developing godly leadership here in Ghana. Jason and Heather will be a key component of this important aspect of developing leaders for the future. If you currently support Jason and Heather, thank you for your faithful giving which will enable them to come serve in Ghana.

If you do not currently support them, let me encourage you to prayerfully consider how God might have you get involved. Not only will you become part of a team that is anticipating God using Jason and Heather to strengthen His Kingdom here in Ghana, but you also will be enabling SIM to fulfill a key strategic goal of missions. Thank you.

Serving in Mission together,

Ruby Mikulencak
SIM Ghana Director

Prayer Requests

- Praise God for continuing to bring in the one-time funds needed to leave for Ghana in July
- Pray for us as we say our "goodbyes" to family, friends, church and classmates
- Pray for God to use us as His servants in Ghana for the sake of His Kingdom
